PRODUCT DESCRIPTION

TECO is a powerful reflection of ALVETRA's engineering expertise and commitment to quality in the field of agricultural technology. Developed to meet the evolving needs of modern agriculture, TECO grain drying systems are designed to deliver high efficiency, energy savings and long-lasting performance. Each of our machines aims to preserve the value of the harvested crop, minimise quality losses and ensure that producers can store their produce with confidence. At ALVETRA, we do not merely manufacture machinery; we aim to be a trusted partner for farmers, agricultural businesses and industrial facilities. Thanks to our investments in constantly evolving technology and our customer-focused approach, TECO has become a trusted brand of choice in many countries today. TECO works for quality, trust and the future of sustainable agriculture.
